1, 2, 3... Bruegel!

Why have 218 children taken over a medieval town?
A mischievous experience in Pieter Bruegel the Elder's intriguing painting Children's Games.

In 1560, Bruegel the Elder produced this puzzling painting of 218 children who have literally taken over a medieval town.
They are playing peculiar games, there are no adults in sight and one of the children is taunting you to step in and play hide-and-seek.

That's when the painting becomes your playground.
Can you find the 218 children before time runs out?
